We love it here, and we’re confident you will, too. Huntsville is A Smart Place to live, work, and raise a family. Years ago, Huntsville played a major role in sending man to the moon. We continue with advancements in military and space – we are home to a thriving military base, Redstone Arsenal, NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, and the state’s top tourist destination, the U.S. Space & Rocket Center.

Huntsville and Madison County offer a high quality of life. In 2019, U.S. News & World Report rated our city the #1 Best Affordable Place to Live in the country. We have high quality education, good paying jobs, and specialized medical care. We have the mountains in our backyard with plenty of hiking, fishing, and outdoor fun, and, if you want to head down to the beach, it’s just a six-hour drive.

It’s true what you hear about Southern hospitality, too. You’ll love your neighbors – we were also ranked #11 Best Place to Live in 2019. Forbes has named Huntsville one of the Top 20 Leading Metros for Business and Kiplinger’s Personal Finance has named Huntsville one of the country’s Top 10 Cities for Raising Families.
